

Aline Cossy-Gantner

Aline is the Chief Development Officer at Fondation Botnar. Since 2017, Aline has been responsible for several health research programmes, including co-leading the development of the Being Initiative, the largest collaborative mental health initiative working to improve young people's mental wellbeing in 13 countries, initiated by Fondation Botnar and its partners. Aline also oversees Fondation Botnar's community of practice platform that strives to foster learning between and within the foundation's network of partners. She is passionate about nurturing a relational approach to wellbeing and building long-term partnerships towards achieving lasting change.
